Summary: I helped unite a region. I slept in darkness ever since then. Two thousand years later, I woke in an era where humans lost their rights and PokÃ©mon took theirs. I had no power on my own. But there is something peculiar about these two. A human and a PokÃ©mon. They share a bond similar to my last hosts. I must help them. In order to stop my enemies from rising, I must bring balance.

>Year X591

_That was the year of the Great Rebellion. __PokÃ©mon of all types rebelled against the humans that would take them as slaves. Due to the immense dependence on the help of PokÃ©mon sympathizers, the humans were easily defeated. All humans were rounded up and put into ghettos. Humans were stripped of their rights, their voice, and their independence. Shade. Their new species name was a reminder of how they had cast PokÃ©mon in their shadows for so long._

"Will you always be my friend?" asked a golden Riolu of a young Shade girl who wore a red scarf as they sat on a tall hill during the sunset.

"Promise," said the girl as she held out her hand and it glowed lightly.

The Riolu held out his palm and it glowed as well. They placed them over each other's hearts and smiled as they both glowed.

That was the last time I saw her for ten years.

KAMEN RIDER TAO

Mikasa stood in an enormous graveyard just outside the slums and stared coldly at the ground with no emotion. She then turned around and looked out at the city beyond the slums. Eren looked out at the expansive city from his house and stared at it sadly. He looked up and found his gaze turning to the slums.

Countless Shades stumbled around the slums and some looked like they were starving. A lot of them barely had any warm clothes before a raging fire broke out and several children cowered in fear as the slums were raided. Hundreds of PokÃ©mon calmly walked the city streets with some having a Shade follow them. These Shades actually looked like they were well off but looked nervous.

Dozens of Aurora marched through the city as the PokÃ©mon ran from them and the glowing black and white eyes being that led them. The being vanished and the Aurora looked up at the tall building next to them and saw the exact same being staring down at them. Lights shone up at the figure and Tao held up a fist. She then jumped down and planted her fist in the face of an Aurora.

Tao launched into the air on her motorcycle then hopped off as the mobility gear on her bike attached to her and she launched herself through the city. She went around behind a Titan and launched high up into the air. As she fell, a bone sword appeared in her hand and she spun around, severing the Titan's spine.

Tao ran toward several shadows across a massive desert and a bow appeared in her hand. She jumped over a canyon and notched the bow. A glowing crimson arrow appeared as she fell toward the shadows. She released the arrow and a stream of fire shot out from her.

>Episode 1: The One Who Will Bring Balance

>Year X984

A shiny Lucario grunted as the curtains of his bedroom were pulled open.

"Good morning, master," said a Shade butler as he bowed to the Lucario, "Your schedule today includes a meeting with the company shareholders, lunch with the mayor, and a state dinner at the palace."

"Leave," ordered the Lucario as he rubbed his eyes and the Shade left.

The Lucario picked himself up and went into his private bathroom. He stepped into the shower and turned the water on. Steam filled the room as the Lucario swiped the condensation from the window and looked out at the city.

"Pathetic Shades," growled the Lucario as he turned away and washed himself.

After showering, he dried off and put on a suit then headed out. Countless butlers and maids of the Shade species bowed to the Lucario as he passed them and entered the dining hall. Inside, two normal Lucario, one wearing a nice dress while the other was wearing a suit like the Shiny Lucario.

"Ah, Eren, good morning," said the Lucario in the dress with a warm smile.

"I don't want to be woken up by those insignificant creatures anymore," said Eren in annoyance as he was brought over his breakfast by a Shade,

"I'll be sure to let them know that you're not to be bothered and pass the job onto a PokÃ©mon," said his mother.

"Eren, I expect you to be on your best behavior today when we attend that dinner this evening," said his father.

"No promises," said Eren as he fired off an Aura Sphere at the head of a maid, who slumped to the floor when she was hit and moved no more.

Both his parents sighed and went back to eating with Eren joining them as a couple Shades removed the body.

(A Few Minutes Later)

Eren walked down the street with his hands behind his head and a scowl on his face.

"Yo, Eren!" called out an Umbreon as it jogged up to him and landed on his head, "How's it going?"

"What do you want, Armin?" questioned Eren as the Umbreon hopped down.

"You wanna hang out today?" asked Armin.

"I'm busy today," said Eren as he noticed a Shade approach them.

"Greetings, Master Eren," said the Shade as he bowed to Eren.

"Hello, Julian," said Eren with distain.

"I thought I told you to let me hang out with Eren by myself," said Armin as he turned to Julian.

"I'm sorry, but your mother ordered me to make sure you two stay out of trouble," explained Julian.

"I've got some time to kill before my meeting so we can hang out until then," said Eren as he began walking with Armin and Julian following him.

They walked through the busy streets of PokÃ©mon with Shades following them before the pair took a seat at a cafÃ© while Julian went to get their drinks.

"Hard to believe that only a year ago this place was in ruins from Tao," said Armin in amazement.

"Sure," said Eren distastefully.

Tao was the name given to the human warrior during the last Human Rebellion a year ago. Tao had appeared with strange creatures and destroyed nearly half the city and killed the king before suddenly vanishing with the creatures.

"Watch it!" shouted an angry voice from behind them.

They looked inside and saw a Syther towering over a Shade child. A girl of about eight.

"I'm sorry!" cried the girl in fear.

"Sorry isn't an excuse for bumping into me!" shouted the Syther.

"I deeply apologize for this Shade," said the owner of the cafÃ©, a Malwile, "Please feel free to help yourself to any item on the menu free of charge."

The Syther grumbled and sat back down as the Malwile led the Shade into the back.

"Wow," said Armin as Julian returned with their drinks and stood next to him, "That was pretty intense. You can sit at the table Julian."

"Thank you, sir," said Julian as he took a seat next to his master.

"Big deal," said Eren as he looked away from the cafÃ©, "All Shades are a disgusting blight on this world."

"Even Mikasa?" questioned Armin.

He regretted saying that an instant later as Eren flipped the table and pinned him by the throat on the ground. Everybody around them stared as Eren's arm was pulled back and his paw began glowing.

"Don't you ever say that name again," he snarled before getting up and leaving.

"Are you okay, master?" asked Julian as he picked up Armin.

"Yeah," said Armin as he tried to catch his breath but continued to watch as Eren disappeared into the sea of PokÃ©mon and Shades, _"Nothing's been the same since that purge ten years ago. It was the last time I saw you smile. Before she died."_

>Eren took a stroll through the park, trying to cool his temper while breathing deeply. He felt something bump into his leg and scowled down at the frightened male Shade child. The child began crying as he backed away from the ball next to Eren's foot. Eren closed his eyes and gently kicked the ball toward the child before he continued on his way.

(Two Hours Later)

Eren sat through his rather boring shareholder meeting and let his eyes wander. He looked down at the street before he tensed up.

"I'm sorry, everyone," he said as he stood up and adjusted his tie, "But I'm afraid I must leave."

He rushed out of the room and down the building before he burst through the front doors.

"Could that have beenâ€¦" he thought as he looked around.

He caught sight of a red scarf and went after it. He followed the Shade down the street and reached out to her and placed his paw on her shoulder. The Shade turned around and Eren's paw dropped.

"Mikasaâ€¦" muttered Eren.

"Hello, Eren," said Mikasa calmly.

"Butâ€¦ you died," trembled Eren.

"If you don't mind, I have errands to run," said Mikasa as she turned away to leave before Eren grabbed her hand.

"I thought you died," said Eren as he was on the verge of crying, "Why didn't you let me know you were alright?"

Mikasa pulled her hand away and turned her back to Eren.

"I'm sorry but if I don't hurry and finish my errands, I'll be in trouble," said Mikasa as she left and Eren just watched her vanish into the crowd.

>"For too long, we have been oppressed," said a person in the shadows to several teenagers, "It is our time to take our place back in the world."

He handed out vile of glowing black liquid to each of them and they looked at them.

"Tonight, humanity returns as the dominant species of the world," said the man as the teenagers did a salute then left the room.

(That Afternoon)

Eren depressingly moved his food around as Armin came up behind his chair.

"Something up?" asked the Umbreon.

"I saw her," whispered Eren.

"Her who?" asked Armin.

"Mikasa," replied Eren, "She's alive."

"You sure it was her?" questioned Armin.

"She was wearing the scarf I gave her," confirmed Eren, "It was her."

"How do you think she survived?" pondered Armin as Eren ate the last of his food and stood up.

He walked away and Armin followed closely behind him. They soon entered the outskirts of the city and stared at the slums ghetto that belonged to the Shade from a hill. A siren went off and the Shade screamed as the police stormed through the ghettos and began forcing them from their houses and executing a whole lot of them. Eren watched with a frown on his face as Armin looked away.

"Can we go, please?" he begged.

Eren remained silent and continued to watch when something caught his eye. A Shade girl, no older than the age of three and wearing a red coat, wandered through the crowd of running Shade like she didn't understand what was going on. He turned to leave but looked back so as to keep his eyes on the girl. She followed a line of Shade as they were led down the street by a group of Sneasel. The girl made a break for it before a Sneasel sliced open her back, blood splattering the street. She moved no more as both PokÃ©mon and Shade walked over her corpse and continued moving along.

"They say our kind used to be nothing more than slaves and items to be used as tools," said Eren, "After all this time, how can we say that we're not doing the same to them?"

"That was unnaturally deep for you," said Armin, "And unusual given your attitude toward Shade."

Eren turned his back and headed home.

(That Night)

Eren sat with his parents in their carriage and frowned as he looked out at all the Shade and PokÃ©mon that lined the streets leading to the palace.

"Seems like a lot of PokÃ©mon are here today," said his mother, Kalura.

Eren remained silent and closed his eyes to see the aura of everything they passed by. He paused when he noticed the aura of a select few was dimmer but shook it off.

"Eren, please try and hold back on the killing of Shades tonight," said his father, Grisha.

"Fine," said Eren as he opened his eyes.

They turned a corner and started heading up a winding road. After a few minutes, they arrived at a set of gates and got out. They walked through the open gates and through the courtyard. They entered the elegant foyer and were met by someone who surprised Eren.

"Welcome to the palace, my duke," said Mikasa with a bow in a tuxedo, "Allow me to escort you to the ballroom."

Eren stared in disbelief as they were led down a hall and Mikasa opened the doors to the grand ballroom.

"I'll catch up," said Eren, "I'm going to find Armin."

"Be sure to speak to the Queen soon," said Kalura as she left with her husband.

"I'm afraid the PokÃ©mon you speak of doesn't have an invitation," said Mikasa calmly.

"You're owned by the Queen?" questioned Eren as he looked at Mikasa.

"I am," said Mikasa, "I have happily served her for the past ten years."

"Bullshit!" said Eren with a scowl, "I've been here multiple times in the past ten years and I never caught a glimpse of you."

"I assure you that I was here," said Mikasa, maintaining her composure.

"Stop lying to me!" shouted Eren as he punched Mikasa.

Everyone looked at them as Eren panted and glared at the downed Mikasa.

"I spent the past ten years thinking you died in that ghetto purge!" he shouted at her as she got up, "We promised to be friends and you just up and vanish! Did our friendship mean nothing to you, you stupid, pathetic, weak, bitch of a human?!"

Mikasa punched Eren right in the jaw and everyone gasped. Security rushed over to Mikasa and restrained her.

"There are somethings in this world only we Shades can comprehend," said Mikasa as she was shoved out of the room.

"I do apologize for mother's servant," said a female shiny Luxio as she walked up to Eren.

"Don't give her any punishment too severe," said Eren as he rubbed the spot Mikasa hit, "Just enough pain so that she won't forget who's superior. By the way, how are you doing, Princess Amelia."

>Mikasa screamed as she her bare back was flogged by several Ivysaur for a few minutes before them stopped. Small streams of blood seeped from the wounds in her back as she caught her breath.

"Thank you, sir," she said, not showing any pain in her voice, "May I have some more?"

The Ivysaur looked at each other then proceeded to continue flogging Mikasa, her screams filling the air once more.

(Several Hours Later)

Eren calmly ate his food when the doors to the ballroom opened and a bloody and chained Mikasa was led in by Weavile. They stopped in front of the table Eren was at with his parents and threw Mikasa at Eren's feet.

"Pleaseâ€¦ forgive me," said the weak Shade as she continued to stare at the ground, "Pleaseâ€¦ forgive me forâ€¦ laying a hand on you. I wasâ€¦ wrong to do soâ€¦ and swear never to do it again."

Eren glared down at her then closed his eyes. He grabbed a Citrus Berry from his plate and tossed it to the ground in front of her.

"This is the last time I help you," said Eren as he opened his eyes minutely, "After this, I never want to see your face again."

Mikasa quickly scooped up the Citrus Berry and devoured it. She was about to be led away when a bolt of lightning struck right outside and shattered the windows. Everyone looked and stared in disbelief at what they saw. An enormous human without skin that easily could've been the size of a mountain rose up over the castle. It raised its arm and swiped at the castle, shattering it. Everyone inside screamed and ran for the doors.

Amelia ran toward the door with Eren and his mother when Eren looked back and saw Mikasa struggling to move with the heavy chains attached to her hands and legs. He took a deep breath then ran toward her.

"Eren, where are you going?!" shouted Kalura.

Eren's paws glowed and he chopped the chains holding Mikasa, shattering them on impact. He then grabbed her wrist and pulled her along with him toward the door. The giant human began destroying more of the castle as they ran out the front door. A sphere appeared in Mikasa's hand and she tossed it out. It opened up and a light shot out of it. It landed in front of them and turned into a motorcycle.

"What the heck is that thing?!" questioned Amelia as Mikasa put her in the sidecar.

"Eren, get in the sidecar," ordered Mikasa.

"But where will Mom sit?" questioned Eren.

There was a scream behind them and they turned to see another giant Shade, this one had a large grin on its face, with Kalura in its hand.

"Mother!" shouted Eren as he made to help but Mikasa held him back, "Let me go!"

The Shade grabbed Kalura with both hands then twisted her. Her spine shattered and she remained motionless as she was raised to the Shade's open mouth. Mikasa turned Eren around and held his head tightly to her breasts and closed her eyes as they were showed in blood.

"Eren, do you trust me?" questioned Mikasa urgently.

"Whaâ€¦?" asked Eren.

"Do you trust me?!" shouted Mikasa urgently as she placed a hand against his chest.

Eren looked down at the hand and froze.

"EREN!" shouted Amelia as she looked up at the giant Shade.

The Shade tossed what was left of Kalura aside and set its eyes upon them.

"Yes!" shouted Eren as he turned back to Mikasa.

Mikasa held up a silver and red sphere and tapped it to his head. An instant later, Eren saw black.

(Some Time Later)

Eren opened his eyes and found himself looking up at a white ceiling. Sitting against the wall was Mikasa with bandages wrapped all along her torso.

"You were out for a week," said Mikasa calmly.

Eren sat up and held his head. His head then shot up and he looked Mikasa in the eyes.

"What about my parents?!" questioned Eren urgently.

Mikasa remained silent and lowered her head. Eren started crying and Mikasa went up to Eren. She placed a broke spike in Eren's lap then stood back. The door flew open and Amelia burst into the room, pouncing on Eren and sending back down onto the bed.

"I was so worried about you!" cried Amelia, "You've been out for three days and I wasn't sure if you'd wake up!"

"It had been over a year since the last time," said Mikasa, "It's only natural that he'd take a while to wake up."

"A year since what?" asked Eren as he moved Amelia aside and sat up again.

"If you don't mind, Eren and I need to get to work, Queen Amelia," said Mikasa with a bow.

"Since when were you made Queen?" asked Eren in surprise.

"Just yesterday," said Amelia as she looked into Eren's eyes, "I was the only member of the royal family left alive so I was the only choice."

"She has made us JÃ¤ger and charged us with exterminating the Titans and Auroras," explained Mikasa.

"But Shades aren't allowed to made JÃ¤ger," quipped Eren.

"Well, this is a special case," said Amelia as she hopped off the bed and looked at Mikasa, "Get to work."

She left and Mikasa went up to Eren's bed.

"Let's get to work," she said with a soft smile.

(An Hour Later)

Eren and Mikasa walked around the city in their JÃ¤ger uniforms and started getting strange looks from both Shades and PokÃ©mon alike.

"I don't know about this," said Eren nervously.

"It'll be alright," said Mikasa as she and Eren walked into an outdoor concourse, "Besides, we found an Aurora already."

"Aurora?" questioned Eren.

"Shades that forcibly bind with the stolen aura of PokÃ©mon in order to gain power," explained Mikasa as she pointed at a nervous looking human, "Come on."

They went over to the Shade and Mikasa folded her arms.

"Why don't you just make it easy on yourself and turn yourself in?"

asked Mikasa to the male Shade.

"You're JÃ¤gers?" questioned the human as he held up a sphere with a red top and a silver bottom, "Then you shall die here and now."

The ball opened and a light inside merged with the Shade, making his eyes glow red and him spurting out flames. All the PokÃ©mon and other Shade began screaming and ran for cover. What seemed like an outer shell burst off the Shade in front of Mikasa and Eren and he was now a monstrous rock-like creature with flames coming off of him.

Mikasa and Eren jumped back and Eren gritted his teeth.

"I've never seen an aura this out of control," said Eren urgently, "This power is insane."

"Well then, I'll just have to defeat him," said Mikasa as she stood up, "No."

She waved her arm over her waist and a strange belt with a slot and two pegs appeared around her waist.

STAND BY!

"We both will," she said as she held up two crystals, one black and one white, that seemed to fit together.

"What are those things?" questioned Eren.

"This time, you should be able to remain conscious afterwards," said Mikasa as she placed the gems on the pegs.

ELECTRIC! FIRE!

She pulled out a copy of the sphere the Aurora has used and pointed it at Eren. A red beam hit him and he vanished. Mikasa tapped the button in the middle of the sphere and it shrunk. She then put it in the slot on top of the belt and a majestic but commanding music filled the air. She crossed her arms over her waist then closed her eyes.

"Henshin," she said calmly as she opened her eyes slightly and threw her arms open, forcing the two gems together.

AURA EMPOWER!

Two large images of the gems came together on Mikasa and formed a suit on her. She looked almost exactly like Eren except the left half of her was white and the right half was black.

"Youâ€¦ Tao!" exclaimed the Aurora.

All the PokÃ©mon and Shades watching began muttering to each other as Tao remained silent.

"Stand down," said Tao in a voice that was different than both Mikasa's and Eren's, "By order of the Queen, you are ordered to stand down."

"Traitor!" shouted the Aurora as it shot a ball of flames at Tao.

Tao held up her right hand and caught the ball of flames, then clenched her hand to extinguish it.

"Sukui ni anata o michibiku jundo koto ga arimasu," said Tao before she jumped into action. (1)

She kicked the Aurora away then continued backing it up until they were in a safe area. As she kicked with her right foot blue electricity seemed to be attack to the effect of her attack while blue flames appeared to be coming off her left foot to propel the Aurora back. She gave a final jumping roundhouse kick and sent the Aurora stumbling back.

The Aurora roared as its aura turned into black flames that flew at Tao. Tao dove left to right to dodge before she held out her left hand to shield herself from the flames.

"Since this is going to go on for a whileâ€¦" said Tao as she held up a blue gem.

She split the emblem on her belt and replaced the black gem with it.

WATER!

She moved out of the way of the flames and pushed the two gems together.

AURA CHANGE!

An image of a blue gem slammed into Tao's right side and that half turned blue. She threw her arm toward the Aurora and sent a high pressure stream of water at it. The flames doused almost instantly and knocked the Aurora back several yards. Tao quickly swapped back to her default form and pulled the emblem off the belt. She folded it in half then placed it in a slot in her right boot.

AURA CHARGE!

Tao got into a running stance and took a deep breath. Her right foot was covered in crackling electricity while it was ignited in blue flames. Tao ran forward and jumped as she spun around to the right. The heel of her boot hit the Aurora in the face and she landed in a crouching position with her right foot behind her.

"Anata no haiboku de nagusame o miidashimasu," said Tao silently as the Aurora exploded behind her. (2)

The Shade that was left fell to the ground and grunted as Tao walked away with a ball of aura in her hand.

"You'll pay for your betrayal!" shouted the Shade as he bit his thumb and broke skin.

A lightning bolt struck and was followed by an explosion that forced Tao to turn around. A large Titan that was at least 15m towered over the city and went further in.

>"It would seem that she's shown her face again," said a girl in a group of people from a building miles away.

"It does seem that way," said a tall man, "You all have your orders."

With that, the group dispersed and went their separate ways.

>PokÃ©mon and Shades ran for cover as the Titan walked through the city and mindlessly destroyed everything. Tao rode through the packed and screaming streets until she saw the Titan walking around.

"There you are, big guy," said Tao as she headed onto an overpass.

An extra belt wrapped around her waist with hookshots attached to her hips. She rode off the overpass and let her bike fall down to the ground while one of the hookshots flew forward and hooked into a building then pulled her toward it at high speeds. She repeated this process until she caught up with the Titan, who saw her. It reached out to grab her and Tao maneuvered out of the way.

"Not gonna be that easy, big guy," chided Tao as she made her way up higher into the sky.

Once she was at the peak that she could go, she brought the sides of her fists together then moved them away from each other as bone swords appeared in her hands. She spun as she fell toward the Titan and sliced it at the base of the neck. Tao landed calmly on one knee as the Titan fell and the flesh melted away in a thick steam, leaving only the corpse of the Shade that it once was behind.

Tao's swords vanished and she collapsed in the street.

"That was a nice bit of exercise," she said aloud as the other PokÃ©mon and Shades began coming out to look at her.

As they gathered, Tao let out a sigh.

"Well, better let those two go for now," said Tao as she split the emblem on her buckle and pulled the sphere out of her belt.

The armor faded away quickly, leaving Mikasa standing where Tao had been. Mikasa pressed the button on the ball, causing it to grow in size before she threw it up into the air. It opened up and a white light shot out from it. The moment the light touched the ground, it materialized as Eren, who instantly collapsed to all fours.

"What in the name of Arceus was that?" he asked between deep breaths.

"That was Tao," said Mikasa calmly as she walked up to Eren, "I am Tao. You are Tao. We are both Kamen Rider Tao."
